

A report about the parliamentary seat value in the upcoming parliamentary election and according to the ratio of participation in the election

Tammuz organization for social development prepared a table clarifying the value of the election seat according to the ratio of participation in the next election. The information was based on the last amendments to the election law and the ways of distributing the parliamentary seats on the governorates as well as the electors' number. Should each of the political entities or the political alliances get a seat, they have to cross the winning threshold of their governorate. The winning threshold is counted depending on the number of voters divided on the allocated parliamentary seats in the governorate.
